HUGH IS A COWARD;
BOB BECOMES HERO

It was a wonderful evening for a toboggan party. Hugh was sulky at first, but after a ride or two his eyes were glistening. The toboggan course in Weston was a dangerous one. At the bottom it crossed a road much used by automobiles. But this evening everything was still and bright and cold. Everybody but the merry coasters were inside. "Let's make this ride the last one," suggested Ted about 11 o'clock. "No, you fellows wanted this. Let's make it a real evening," replied Hugh. They coasted till 11:30. "I really think this ought to be the last one," said Jean. Swiftly they skinned down the hill. Bob was in front, Hugh in the rear, guiding. At the bottom they saw a sudden glare of light in the road. Sarah Ramsey screamed. Bob shouted back. "Turn her! Hugh, turn her!" But the toboggan did not turn. It shot straight ahead like an arrow. Bob saw what was coming. With a mighty lunge he turned the sled slightly so that it hit the automobile a glancing blow. The snow at the side of the road was soft. Only Bob was hurt seriously. The rest were tossed into the bank. But Hugh? There he came walking down the hill. When had seen the danger he had taken advantage of his position on the toboggan, and without trying to turn the sled had slid off the back end, leaving the rest to plunge straight ahead. "Are you hurt, Jean?" he asked. "Get away! Get away!" Jean almost screamed. "Oh, Bob, what is the matter?" Hugh vanished. Jean insisted on helping the boys take Bob home. Inside of an hour they had him propped up in bed, his broken shoulder bandaged. He was smiling. "Gee, I'm glad you weren't hurt, Jean," he said. Mrs. Brooks and the boys stepped out and for a long time Jean and Bob talked alone. When Jean left, there were tears in her eyes, but she was happy in her heart. "Remember, Mrs. Brooks, I'm going to bring something over for Bob every day. You don't care if I am his cook, too, do you?"

MANY HEAR BOY PREACHER
In Detroit, Brooklyn, New York, Little Rock, and other American cities thousands have crowded churches and tabernacles to hear England's boy evangelist, Charles Forbes Taylor, 2 years old, now touring this country, with his father, Rev. Charles Taylor, Sr. Charles Taylor was born in Staffordshire, England, in 1898. He has traveled with his father since he was three years old, and has preached since he was nine.

SCOUT CANOES, ROTARY AND KIWANIS.

The two big war canoes, "Rotary" and "Kiwanis," which were presented to the boy scouts by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in August for the scout camp at Birch Lake. The canoes are painted dark green with gold lettering and each canoe carries 13 boys. They are kept in the stone boat house at Leeper park and are so much in demand these days that they are dated three weeks in advance by the scout masters.

Girlhood Days of Famous Women.
SARAH BERNHARDT.

Because Sarah was ordered by her father to be sent to a convent in France when she was seven years old, she flew into a terrible rage which she later recounts:

"The idea that I was to be ordered about without any regard to my own wishes or inclinations put me into an indescribable rage. I rolled about on the ground uttering the most heartrending cries. I yelled out all kinds of reproaches, blaming mama, my aunts, and Mme. Pressard for not finding some way to keep me with them. The struggle lasted two hours, and while I was being dressed, I escaped into the garden and attempted to climb the trees and threw myself into the pond. Finally, when I was completely exhausted and subdued, I was taken off sobbing in my aunt's carriage."

This scene is typical of the thorough way in which Sarah Bernhardt did things. Her strong emotions helped make her the famous actress who has played all over Europe and America.

OLD MAN PUZZLE

Find two numbers such that the square of the first plus the square of the second equals 8; while the first plus the product of the first and the second, equals 6. (Answer to yesterday's: "Make hay while the sun shines," is formed from the letters in the words, hen, hush, steam, whiskey, a line.)

Electric Washer—1920 Model

Buying an electric washer is important enough that you owe it to yourself to investigate thoroughly.

Don't be too hasty in your judgment. Don't give too much credence to "talking points." A better and surer way is to have a demonstration right in your own home.

Today—right now—call one of your friends who uses a Coffield. Then early Monday morning call Main 107 and have a machine sent out to do your washing free.

Some electric washers lift and dip the soiled fabric in a tub of water. And it is a good method.

Other electric washers rock and toss the soiled fabric to and fro in water. And it is a good method.

The A B C Electric Laundress does both. Rapidly it alternates these good methods. And so it combines their advantages.

Two Good Washers in One

There are only two best electric washing machine methods—by one the clothes are dipped up and down and by the other they are rocked to and fro. The A B C Electric Laundress alone works both these best ways!

Alternately the soiled fabrics are lifted and dipped, rocked and tossed. Quietly, gently, a springless mechanism makes this dual agitating process which so thoroughly loosens and completely flushes out the dirt.

Two good washers in one for the price of one—that's the A B C Electric Laundress. Endorsed by Good Housekeeping Institute.

There's An Easy Way To Pay, Too!

A Household Necessity--- NOT A LUXURY

Thousands of housewives have eliminated the drudgery of the old-fashioned scrub-board wash day, the wear and tear on clothes, the laundress expense, by installing in their homes. It has solved their wash day problems—and will solve yours. Three cents worth of electricity—a little soap and water—the machine does the rest.

Let us demonstrate to you the efficiency and other advantages of the A B C Super Electric, either in our store or at your own home. Call or phone at your earliest convenience.
